The shrill blast of a bugle announced the approach of the cavalry detachment and a squidron inner Major Nicholson, consisting of Troops A, B, C and D, of the Seventh Cavalry, stationed and D, of the Seventh Cavairy, stationed at Fort Myer, elattered up and went into position, facing the church. Next came a battery of artiflery, which formed some distance from the cavairy, and the interval was taken up by two combanies of the second engineers under Captain Merriweather L. Walker, The celebrated engineers' band accompanied this detachment. Major Burr, of the engineers, commanded the combined detachment.

The Secretary of War and a group of general officers of the army, all of whom were to act as pall-bearers, arrived shortly after 11 o'clock. Other pall-bearers, representing in their persons some office they held or had held, under a State or the national government, or men distinguished as soldiers who had worn the plue or the gray, arrived at the same time. The guests of honor consisted of the Secretary of War, the Assistant Secretary of War, General Oliver, Major General George L. Gillespie, Brigadier General George B. Davis, Brigadier General George B. Davis, Brigadier General George B. Davis, Brigadier General eral George B. Davis, Brigadier General Andrew S. Burt, Brigadier General George Andrew S. The guests were ushered into pews reserved for them near the altar. Lieutenant-Governor Willard, as the representative of the Commonwealth of Virginia, occupied a pew near the front. Lieutenant-Colonel Jo Lane Stern, representing the Virginia military, was in the same pew. Immediately in their rear sat Secretary Taft and a number of officers of the army, all in uniform and each wearing a knot of crepe on sword hilt.

Admiral Schley arrived at the church before 11 o'clock. He and General Lee had been warm friends for years.

Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim, chaplain of the Confederate Camp of Washington, and a lifetong friend of General Lee's, conducted the service. His reading was singularly impressive, and once or twice there was a note of personal sorrow in his tones. It was remarked that he repeated the entire fifteenth chapter of St. Paul's second epistic to the Corinthians from memory, making but a single crror.

Corinthians, from memory, making, out a single error.

The choir sang the hymn, "There is a fland of Pure Delight." Dr. McKim repeated the litany, and then followed a solo, "Jesus, Lover of My Souh." sungby a male voice. It was very impressive. Nearly the entire audience appeared to join in repeating the Aposites' Creed. The rector then read a brief prayer, and the audience was dismissed.

A large number of those in the church passed out by way of the space in front of the chancel, in order to take a farewell view of the dead.

Then eight cavalrymen marched in to the bier. There they stooped, and, raising the casket to their shoulders, bore it from the church. There was a sharp word of command from Major Burr, a bugle cal., and swords leaped from scabbards in salute, the infuntry presented arms, and the artillerymen stood at attention. At the curb a calsson, heavily draped in black, stood to receive the remains. To it were attached six horses, in tunerat trappings, and behind was a trooper, leading "Domino," a horse of the Seventh Ctvairy, saddled and bridled, but riderless The coffin was placed on the calsson. There was a ruffle of trumpets, a large American flag was draped about the flower-laden coffin, and the procession moved slowly out G Street towards Fourteenth, down Fourteenth Street to Pennsylvania Avenue, and down the Avenue to Sixth Street into the Pennsylvania Station.

DRAKE'S BRANCH, VA., May 1.—At a meeting of H. A. Carrington Camp, Confederate Veterans, at Charlotte Courthouse to-day Past Commander Colonel T. W. Scott announced the sudden and untimely death of General Fitzhugh Lee and moved that suitable action be taken by the camp.

Adjutant J. B. Faris moved that a committee of three, with Captain T. W. Scott added, be appointed to prepare resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the camp. The chairman appointed J. C. Carrington, J. B. Faris and R. T. Gaines, who reported the following:

Resolved, First, That we have heard with deep pain of the sudden and untimely death of General Fitzhugh Lee and we desire to mingle our tears with those of our former comrades-in-arms and mourn this great affliction.

Second. We wish to express our admiration of General Lee's character and our appreciation of his many manly services to the State and the nation as a leader of men on the forum as well as in the field.

Third. We believe that for good fellowship, tact and true statesmanship he had no superior, and his career will add lustre to the history of his State and the nation.

GROWING WORSE

Rioting More Open and Vicious and Attacks on Non-Union Men More Frequent.

EMPLOYERS TO USE RIFLES

Mayor Dunne Much Disturbed and Is Trying to Prevent Trouble.

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, May 1.—Conditions in the teamsters' strike were worse to-day than at any preceding time. The strikers were in ugiler mood, the rioting was more open and vicious, and the attacks on nonunion men were more frequent and daring than at any time since the beginning of the strike. The chief cause for the increased belligerency on the part of the strikers and their friends is the fact that the Employers' Teaming Association to-day brought 1,500 men into Chicago to take the places of the strikers, and 500 more are said to be now on the way, and will arrive within twelve hours. These men will receive the full ray of union men, and it has been guaranteed to them that their positions will be permanent. Among the strike-breakers are two hundred farmer boys. To-morrow, whenever a wagon of the Employers' Teaming Association goes through the streets a rifle will be carried on each wagon in open view. the places of the strikers, and 500 more will Use Rifles.

During the last week there has been much complaint on the part of the strike sympathizers of the readlness with which non-union men, particularly negroes, have used revolvers. A number of strike-breakers have been arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, and today the attorneys for the Employers Teaming Association called on Chief of Police O'Neill and asked if their men had not the right to carry weapons, provided they were held in open view. Chief of Police O'Neill replied that there was no law against it, and arrangements were promptly made by the employers to place rifles on every one of their wagons. Over one thousand rifles were purchased today, and during the latter part of the afternoon a number of wagons went through the streets with a rifle lying across the knees of the driver and his assistant.

When Mayor Dunne was informed of the fact that rifles would be carried by non-union men, he was visibly disturbed, and he declared that the police would not be permitted to authorize the carrying of arms by any one, whether in the employment of the Employers' Teaming Association or affiliated with the strikers. There was a report late this evening that Mayor Dunne was about to force an adjustment of the trouise, but this, he declared to-night, was incorrect.

Five men were seriously hurt during the fights to-day, and many others were hurt. No decided increase in the number of men on strike was made to-day. The most important accession to the teamsters was the drivers of the delivery wagons of retail grocery stores.

The most important accession to the teamsters was the drivers of the delivery wagons of retail grocery stores. These declared that they would not call for goods 'at any wholesale establishment where a strike existed.

Forced Them Into Line.

The Employers' Association this afternoon drove a wedge into the ranks of the Chicago Team Owners' Association. This latter organization is composed of men who do teaming for many of the large business houses, and particularly in the matter of hauling coal. They have fought shy so far of alding the employers. The employers this afternoon informed the largest few team owning companies that largest five team owning companies that if coal was not delivered all of their contracts would be cancelled at once, and they would not be renewed at any time

He was guilty of the charge of being a department runner and executive cierk. He received many letters from his constituents from all over Virginia, and no matter who the writer should be, it was his duty as a gentleman to answer them, to perform any just favor asked for in them. He received these requests with pleasure, and asked any citzen of Accomac who had written him and Tailed to receive an answer to stand up and he would applogize to him. He vehemently denounced his opponent for accusing him of magnifying his own service to the detriment of his colleague, Senator John W. Daniel. He stated that Mr. Daniel's record needed no defense before the Virginia people, and if it did he would be the first to speak in his favor.

In answer to his opponent's accusation that he had been the originator of no measure of benefit to the people of Virginia, the senator referred to his work in accomplishing the settlement of the State's claim against the national government for funds used in the war of 1812. (Special to The Times-Dissatch.)

CHARLOTTE C. H., VA., May 1.—Congressman Claude A. Swanson addressed the people of the county to-day at Charlotte courthouse, making a fine speech. He was introduced by Delegate B. D. Admiss. In his introductory remarks the excessed pleasure in being in the his correct county. In announcing his candidacy for the governorship he declared it to be the historic county. In announcing his candidacy for the governorship he declared it to be neople to bestow.

Mr. Swanson said if the people think another can perform the duties of the office better than he, they should not vote for him. He would not say anything against his opponents—does not know how to sling mud. He is a Democrat, because he believes in its principles. He said he believes it is in the hearts of the people to elect him Governor. He said he is the candidate of no faction. He referred to his twelve years' record in Congress and challenged an examination of it.

Mr. Swanson said the first need of the State is a great business revival.

sald no people have greater natural advantages than the people of Virginia, and she needs to push herself to the front.

The Jamestown Exposition is the chance to advertise the advantages of the State. He believes in the proper local regulation of freight rates.

If cleeted Governor, Mr. Swanson sa'd he would seek the interests of the State in the appointment of the Corporation Commission. He said he wants to be Governor because it was his early ambittonnot for the social frivolities. He advocated longer school terms and better schools-believes, in single text-book list. He believes his experience as, pupil and teacher better fit him to understand the needs of public schools. The change of schoolbooks, should be as quickly as possible, but gradually.

Mr. Swanson said good roads were a pet hobby of his. The speaker said the best way to get good roads is to get Federal, State and local aid. Labor and money are needed. The convicts should be worked on the public roads. He believes as much money should be given inland counties as seacoust counties obtain from the Federal government.

He thinks the State would do well to elect him Governor and get the advantage of his experience on the Ways and Means Committee of Congress. If elected Governor Mr. Swanson wild he would see to it that Virginia will be the first State solder and thinks the State should be sliberal towards him.

The speaker spoke earnestly in advocacy of the Barksdale pure elections law and said there should be a strict and honest enforcement of this law. He said the rich man should have no more power than his character and worth entitle and he may also the said he made no fight on riches, and sees ho money being used him to. He said he made no fight on the consumption of the large crowd in attendance was disappointed at not he ring Governor Montague speak.
